

THE WOODCARVERS COTTAGE

“Carving the Dream”

It must have been a magic place, the old cottage in the wood.

For it gave them inspiration to carve for common good.

They found the cottage quite by mishap, but little did they know,

That a group of mischievous nisser lived in the ground below.

For when they carved and painted to decorate the tree,

The nisser cause the magic that set their imaginations free.

They transformed the cottage into a dragon ship in flight,

With dragon heads and shuttered wings; it really was a sight.

They tried to work together to decorate the tree,

But the nisser caused more mischief as you can surely see.

Now the woodcarvers were on a mission for the “Festival of Trees,”

To carve and paint decoration that certainly would please.

And when the task was completed, a treasure it did seem,

For someone’s dream was realized by the woodcarvers’ “Carving the Dream.”

Rochester Woodcarvers

Gary Berg, Member